

COMMUNITY WORK BENEFIT NEW

Shakespeare Play Tuesday Afternoon and Evening to Raise Fund.

The presentation of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which is to be given by the Community Service at the Dean Place, Connecticut and Florida avenues, for the benefit of the Community Service, promises to be a great success financially as well as from an artistic point of view. Many boxes already have been sold.

The Community Service is doing a noble work for the soldiers, sailors and marines in the Washington, D. C., and the appeal for funds to carry on the work during the coming summer is meeting with a fairly satisfactory response. Contributions in any amount may be sent to the treasurer, Frank E. Ghiselli, in care of Commercial National Bank, or to The Evening Star office. In either event they will be duly acknowledged and the amounts turned over to the treasurer.

Contributions Announced.
Contributions ranging from $10 to $100 have been received from the following: The Evening Star Newspaper Company, Mrs. Beale E. Howard, Frank B. Noyes, Senator William McKimley, N. L. Burchell, Col. Robert M. Thompson, Mrs. James Carroll Fraser, Mrs. John Allen Dougherty, Victor Kaufmann, Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. Marshall Field, William Phelps Eno, Mrs. R. R. Govin, Mrs. Charles Wetmore, United States Navy, Mrs. James J. Marwick, Jr., Francis T. A. Junkin, Mrs. Mary Eno, Mrs. Robert Wood Bliss, Mrs. L. A. Corcoran, Mrs. N. F. V. Lyons, S. Kann Sons, Lansburgh & Bro., Goldenberg, Dr. Isaac J. Hecht, Dr. Abraham Simon, Dr. Baumgartner, Coca Cola bottling works, Jewish Alliance Association of H Street Temple, The National Community Chorus, Rabbi Loeb.

The presentation of "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be at 4:45 and 9 p.m.

Fairy Fantasy in Two Parts.
The fairy fantasy will be played in two parts with a musical interlude and interpolated dance numbers by Pauline Graff, who is cast as Puck, Katherine Nicholas as Moth, and wee Anna.

Fairy ensemble numbers will be given with light effects, especially arranged for this production of a danced by fifty girls as elves and fairies, and sung by the big hidden chorus of sixty women's voices, with full orchestral accompaniment.

The cast includes Arthur White as Theseus, Duke of Athens; Benjamin F. Hinkle as Egeus, father of Hermia; Leslie Waudby as Lysander, and Maurice Jarvis as Demetrius, lover of Helena. J. Martin Seranage as Quince, a carpenter; Alexander Woodburn as Snug, the joiner; Finley Hayes as Bottom, a weaver; Clifton F. Clark as Flute, a bellows mender; Ralph Robertson as Snout, a tinker; and Emory J. Moore as Starling, a tailor. Emma Ware Anderson will be seen as Hippolyta, the Queen of the Amazons; Marie J. McGuire as Hermia, in love with Lysander, and Virginia Hardy as Helena, in love with Demetrius.

The fairies will be Oberon, the king, played by Harriet Murphy; Titania, the queen, by Payne Barnes; and Puck, by Pauline Graff. Pease Blossom, Cobweb Moth and Mustard Seed will be played by Laura Clark, Agony, by Katherine Nicholas and Carol Taylor.

Attendants on Theseus and Hippolyta are Mrs. Brett Summy, Mrs. Philip Kemm, Miss Evelyn Prescott, Audrey Herron, Martha Boyle, Mildred Hoover, Virginia Byrd Hereford, Elizabeth Wells, Wellington Smith, William Ring, James Madden, Joseph Healy, James Patterson, Irving W. Bucklin and William Larkin.

Patrons' ticket attendants will be Marie Byrd Kemm, Nora Cuth, Mabel Paine, Katherine Eckert and Anna Breitbarth. The other elves and fairies will be fifty dancers of the Charlotte Patterson School of Rhythmic Culture. The fairy songs will be sung by the women's section of the National Community Chorus, assisted by members of the Rubinstein Club.

The directors of the production include Marie Moore Forrest, Maud Howell Smith, Denis E. Connell, Sol Harkness, Charles Wenger, Robert Bell, Pauline Oak, F. B. Patterson and Bess Davis Schneider.

CALLS FOR LEADERSHIP BASED UPON RESPECT

Death of Dr. Rosa Prompts Writer to Suggest to Government Officials.

To the Editor of The Star:
I was shocked to read in The Star of the death of Dr. E. B. Rosa, chief physician of the bureau of standards of the Department of Commerce.

Having known something of Dr. Rosa's work and his professional purpose and of his high ideals of service, it seems right to ask for a brief space in The Star to call attention to his death and to suggest that government departments and government officials be essentially inefficient. The obvious and necessary wastes of a democratic form of government often cloud the eyes of our people from the self-sacrificing spirit and the high motives of public service, which control scores of cloistered men in the scientific, engineering and research divisions of our federal government departments.

Dr. Rosa belonged to that class, well known to the electrical industry, he was comparatively unknown to the public at large. Yet for twenty years he has served the nation and it seems just that his service be recorded publicly at this time, when public service is the highest and finest character is essential to our nation is to solve some of the economic and social problems which face us.

A witty British publisher recently, in addressing a group of publishers of engineering and industrial journals, said that England today may be conceived to be divided into two camps. One camp is made up of people of brains, Sidney Webb, socialists and radicals of various hues of red. The other camp is made up of people of brains, without experience. In the other he placed business men, representatives of both labor and capital, who almost could be said to have experience but no brains.

Our conditions in this country are not England's conditions, yet we need a leadership here as well as in England that combines brains with experience.

The relation of our government departments to industry is especially passing calls public attention to the need of service that must be rendered by government departments, men, on the one hand, and men of industry and commerce must have a mutual respect for each other if we can have a government that is a real government.

The Department of Commerce has an opportunity for leadership which depends for success on mutual respect. Mr. Hoover has established the policy that the department be developed as an aid to industry, a place where the rank and file of manufacturers and merchants may come for help in a center for the standing business practices, the simplification of processes and a weather map of business conditions.

Mutual respect, high ideals of service and the bringing together of brains and experience will bring results.

S. M. FEIKER
Hot Springs, Va.

The great bell of Moscow, the largest in the world, has never been rung. It cracked in the casting and now stands on a pedestal in the Kremlin. Japsomen are very quick in taking a point, according to one judge.

MR. HAYS FLIES TO N. Y.

Postmaster General Interested in Air Mail Routes.

Postmaster General Hays flew to New York city yesterday afternoon with Gen. Mitchell of the air service. The pair took off from Bolling field shortly before 10 o'clock. The postmaster general seemed to be enjoying himself immensely, and wore his characteristic smile until borne out of sight of spectators.

Mr. Hays has evinced the greatest interest in the air mail service and was determined to try the flying game at the first opportunity. Yesterday being a holiday for the government service gave him his opportunity.

One object of the trip was to familiarize himself with the flying route followed by aerial mail service flyers in their trips between the capital and the metropolis.

COURTS PAY HONOR TO JUSTICE GOULD

Esteem for Deceased Jurist Voiced at Gathering of Bench and Bar.

The esteem in which Justice Ashley M. Gould was held by the bench and bar of the District of Columbia was voiced yesterday, when the general term courtroom was crowded to overflowing to hear the formal announcement of his death. Chief Justice McCoy briefly stated the purpose of the meeting after Henry E. Davis, former United States attorney for the District of Columbia, had made the announcement of the death. Justice McCoy called on Justice Stafford, who had served longest with Justice Gould on the bench, to express the sorrow of the court.

Remarks by Mr. Davis.
Mr. Davis referred to the fact that twenty-three years ago he had asked Mr. Gould to become an assistant United States attorney, from which position he was made chief of that office and then appointed to the bench. He spoke of the long and honorable service of the deceased jurist, and the long and "more honorable" service on the bench. His place would be vacated by the death of Justice Gould, and the speaker paid tribute to Justice Gould as "man, lawyer, judge and friend," and declared that his passing left a void in each of those relationships.

Chief Justice McCoy's Tribute.
Chief Justice McCoy recalled that it was in that very courtroom that Justice Gould had sat with him when the speaker first was appointed to the bench and rendered a great service to him, and up to his death never failed to give aid to his associates from his profound knowledge of the law. At a later time, he suggested, to express in some more suitable manner their love and esteem for the deceased, he announced that out of respect to Justice Gould the various branches of the court would remain in recess until after the funeral.

The remarks of Justice Stafford were printed in The Star yesterday.

BOYS' CLUB BENEFIT BALL GAME AROUSES INTEREST

Keen Rivalry to Dispose of Most
Tickets for Washington-
Detroit Contest.

Tickets are selling rapidly for the base ball game here June 9, between the Washington and Detroit ball clubs, for the benefit of the Boys' Club, 33 and 35 streets, near the National Community Chorus, assisted by members of the Rubinstein Club.

The directors of the production include Marie Moore Forrest, Maud Howell Smith, Denis E. Connell, Sol Harkness, Charles Wenger, Robert Bell, Pauline Oak, F. B. Patterson and Bess Davis Schneider.

The directors of the production include Marie Moore Forrest, Maud Howell Smith, Denis E. Connell, Sol Harkness, Charles Wenger, Robert Bell, Pauline Oak, F. B. Patterson and Bess Davis Schneider.

The directors of the production include Marie Moore Forrest, Maud Howell Smith, Denis E. Connell, Sol Harkness, Charles Wenger, Robert Bell, Pauline Oak, F. B. Patterson and Bess Davis Schneider.

NEW PRESCRIPTION RULE.

Doctors May Soon Issue Unlimited Whisky Orders.

Limitation on the number of whisky prescriptions which a physician may write is to be removed upon the promulgation of new regulations just issued. They provide that a doctor may write as many prescriptions as he believes necessary. Under existing regulations physicians are limited to 100 whisky prescriptions over a period of ninety days.

The new rule, officials said, were ready for consideration by the new commissioner of internal revenue, Mr. Blair of Winston-Salem, N. C., who is expected to arrive in Washington tomorrow.

Removal of the limit from the number of prescriptions for whisky, it was explained, was made necessary by the opinion of the home General Palmer, holding that Congress had not delegated to the prohibition authorities the right to fix arbitrary limits to the use of whisky for medical purposes. The only limit imposed was that according to the law, officials asserted, was that not more than one pint could be prescribed for any one person within ten days.

P. R. R.'S FREIGHT RECORD

New Schedule Allows 79 Per Cent of Trains to Make Time.

Freight movements and on-time deliveries on the Pennsylvania railroad system made a record during the month of April 1921, according to figures given out by the company. The freight schedules put into effect in April resulted in 79 per cent of the trains arriving at the destination on time. This is the first month for which complete figures are available.

During the month of April 1921 freight trains were operated on the new schedules, which require through freight movement on definite schedules of arrival and departure, similar to the movement of passenger trains. The total number of trains operated in 1,104 arrived at destination on time.

Of those that were late, however, connections were made in every case so that all the freight was actually delivered to consignees on time. All perishable freight such as fresh meat and vegetables, live stock and high-class, non-perishable merchandise are handled in this service, mineral traffic and other freight being moved somewhat slower.

WEATHER TIPS FOR FARMERS
Farmers of Maryland are to get weather forecasts daily through arrangements completed by Dr. E. B. Bomberger, acting director of the University of Maryland extension service, and J. H. Spencer, director of the weather bureau at Baltimore. The method of getting the information to the farmers will vary with local conditions.

BUYS U. S. BUILDINGS.
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 21.—The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company has purchased from the War Department large apartment houses built here during the war. The apartments will accommodate seventy families and will be rented to shipyard employees.

SEVENTH AND EYE STREETS
The new building at 7th and Eye streets, which is being torn down, and the question of vacating the others has been held up pending legislation.

PLANS FOR JULY 4TH.
Arrangements have been made for the Fourth of July celebration to be held at Kensington, Md. Mayor Skinner has appointed a number of committees to work out the details for the celebration and the co-operation of the residents of Chevy Chase.

DRIVE SHOWS NEED FOR NEW CHURCH
Combined Capacity of Chevy Chase Buildings, 820, and Population, 7,000.

Seven thousand people in Chevy Chase and a very large proportion of the population of Washington have a striking illustration of the need of a new church building in the District in the inauguration of the movement for financing greater building accommodations for religious worship at Chevy Chase Circle.

With a population of six or seven thousand in Chevy Chase, which includes the community section of the city, the combined capacity of the churches there is only 1,000. This is not all that has confronted Chevy Chase. In five years it is estimated that the population of that territory will reach upward of 9,000 people and that the number of children of school age will reach at least 4,000. This is the condition of affairs in one of the largest suburbs of the National Capital that has caused the awakening of interest and support of the most prominent men and women of Washington during the past week. The church that the Presbyterians of that community are planning and for which they have been conducting a campaign among prominent Presbyterians throughout the United States is designed to provide for 1,000 people at the regular church services and 1,100 children at the Sunday school services. The work on this new building, the church auditorium structure, will begin as quickly as possible and is expected to be completed before the end of 1922.

Provides Triple Capacity.
It will provide a triple present capacity for the Sunday school under greatly improved conditions. The present inadequate situation of the children of the Sunday school, and they embrace a variety of creeds and faiths, have to be taught in outside quarters rented by the church, and in one case several blocks away from the church.

Sometime the church will be augmented by the erection of an entirely new Sunday school house, adapted to the most modern training methods, with numerous class rooms, adequate assembly hall, a library room, offices, church society rooms and accommodations for social gatherings. The very plan, however, is not the erection at this time, a manse on the newly purchased ground on Patterson street, adjoining the church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hubert Lee Johnson, and his family will live. The entire program therefore will eventually cost $200,000, which is expected to be provided for the religious expansion of Chevy Chase for some years to come, with building or improvement operations that may be made by the other churches in the community.

Description Sent Out.
To every home in Chevy Chase there has been sent by the committee in charge of the Presbyterian home movement a comprehensive description of the new $200,000 church, with commendations from the organized Presbyterian bodies regarding the project. It states among other things that the Chevy Chase home has its national factors as well as local, and that the thousands of young men and women every year leave their home surroundings and come to Washington to meet unknown influences in this great city, which is not ranked in population (437,571) by only thirteen American cities. It is also pointed out that all the Washington churches always face a shifting population, and that their current support comes largely from "low-salaried" government employees of more or less uncertain tenure of office, many of whom look upon themselves as "strangers here."

The leaders of the movement have pointed out that Methodist Episcopal Church has already raised $400,000 throughout the south $400,000 and built a fine new representative church in Washington. Under the head of "What the Methodist Episcopal Church South is Doing," thus writes the announcement distributed to all churches, "the Presbyterian Presbyterians of the city and the Rotary Club, are in friendly rivalry to see which can dispose of the greatest number of tickets."

The Boys' Club is an outgrowth of the former Working Boys' Home and is a real club in every respect, for boys between the ages of eight and sixteen. The members of the club are summed up in the condensed report of the superintendent for April, which follows: Total 215; new members 42; attendance at gymnasium during month, 912; number different boys in industrial classes, 108; number different depositors in bank, 105; amount deposited during month, $105.42; amount deposited since January, $3,197.8; number of boys officers, 31; and group state meetings, 2.

Not Commercial Center.
"Our national capital is different from any and all of the capital cities of the world. It is not a center of commerce, of industry, of politics, through long years. It is not a commercial center and never can be. Many other capital cities are metropolises of trade, as well as capitals of nations. Many of their great churches equal, if they do not surpass, the political buildings which surround them.

"But what a contrast is found in Washington when its churches are compared with the Capitol or the Congressional Library. This fact is not creditable to the capital nor good for the nation.

"How can this be remedied? Churches to comport with the public buildings of the city cannot be erected by appropriations from the national treasury. Nor can they be built by the people who live in Washington, for the population changes with every change of administration, and if it were more stable it can never be composed of men and women of great wealth, since there is no wealth-producing commerce in the city.

Duty to Have Edifice.
"In view of all these facts, it seems to be the manifest duty of every great religious denomination in the country to erect at least one more representative church at the National Capital. And their duty and their interest coincide in the matter, for without such a church their members who for cause come to reside in the city will drift away into other communities that are better housed.

"WARREN A. Candler, Bishop of the Presbyterian Church at Chevy Chase, was urged by the United States Senator Francis G. Newlands. He made the suggestion that the church be opened within a generation and expressed the hope that it would be occupied in a strong spirit of religious unity.

FAVORABLE TO RED CROSS
Resolution in Senate Would Permit Use of Temporary Buildings.

Authority is given the American Red Cross to continue occupying the temporary buildings at 7th and D streets northwest in a joint resolution reported favorably to the Senate by the committee on public buildings and grounds by Senator McKimley of Illinois.

One of the buildings is being torn down, and the question of vacating the others has been held up pending legislation.

CIVITAN CLUB'S DINNER.
Senator Underwood to Be Speaker on Tuesday Night.

The Civitan Club of Washington, the local branch of the International Association of Civitan Clubs, will give a dinner at the Shoreham Tuesday evening, at which it will receive its charter from the national organization. Senator Underwood of Alabama, where the headquarters of the international association are located, will be the principal speaker.

The charter will be presented by Henry Baker, president of the Civitan Club of Baltimore, representative president of the international body. An elaborate program has been provided by the entertainment committee, including solos by James Young and Mrs. Ethel Holzel-Gawler, songs by the Schubert Quartet, members by the Schubert Instrument Trio.

ASKS COAL TAX INQUIRY.
House Member Cites Levy Made in Pennsylvania.

Attorney General Daugherty would be directed under a resolution introduced by Representative MacGregor, republican, New York, to determine whether the 1½ per cent ad valorem tax levied by the state of Pennsylvania on anthracite coal mined in that commonwealth is in violation of the federal Constitution and if so to take steps to have its enforcement suspended.

Imposition of the tax, Mr. MacGregor said would furnish the basis for further increase in the price of anthracite coal.

7,000 LIFE-SAVERS.
More than 7,000 persons holding certificates showing they have passed the examination required for membership in the Red Cross life-saving corps, will be among the life-savers on duty in waters in every part of the country this summer. Of these 1,500 are women and 600 are boys and girls whose prowess entitles them to rank on a par with men.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.
Carlton Kemp, Worker on Trolley Wiring, Is Victim.

Carlton Kemp, twenty-five, of Baltimore, was electrocuted by a live wire while working on the overhead trolley wire of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis railroad near McDevitt station, Md., Friday.

He was brought to Casualty Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. Carbo. The body is at the District morgue. Relatives have been notified.

CIVIC WORKERS TO MEET.
The executive board of the American Civic Association, which has its headquarters here, is to meet at the City Club in New York city at 11 o'clock next Friday to consider plans for the future. Harlan James of this city is secretary of the organization.

The Tarahumare Indians. Frequently employed by the Mexican government as couriers, are said to be able to cover 170 miles a day on foot, and have been known to run 600 miles in five days.

CIVITAN CLUB'S DINNER.

Senator Underwood to Be Speaker on Tuesday Night.

The Civitan Club of Washington, the local branch of the International Association of Civitan Clubs, will give a dinner at the Shoreham Tuesday evening, at which it will receive its charter from the national organization. Senator Underwood of Alabama, where the headquarters of the international association are located, will be the principal speaker.

The charter will be presented by Henry Baker, president of the Civitan Club of Baltimore, representative president of the international body. An elaborate program has been provided by the entertainment committee, including solos by James Young and Mrs. Ethel Holzel-Gawler, songs by the Schubert Quartet, members by the Schubert Instrument Trio.

PLANS FOR JULY 4TH.
Arrangements have been made for the Fourth of July celebration to be held at Kensington, Md. Mayor Skinner has appointed a number of committees to work out the details for the celebration and the co-operation of the residents of Chevy Chase.

DRIVE SHOWS NEED FOR NEW CHURCH
Combined Capacity of Chevy Chase Buildings, 820, and Population, 7,000.

Seven thousand people in Chevy Chase and a very large proportion of the population of Washington have a striking illustration of the need of a new church building in the District in the inauguration of the movement for financing greater building accommodations for religious worship at Chevy Chase Circle.

With a population of six or seven thousand in Chevy Chase, which includes the community section of the city, the combined capacity of the churches there is only 1,000. This is not all that has confronted Chevy Chase. In five years it is estimated that the population of that territory will reach upward of 9,000 people and that the number of children of school age will reach at least 4,000. This is the condition of affairs in one of the largest suburbs of the National Capital that has caused the awakening of interest and support of the most prominent men and women of Washington during the past week. The church that the Presbyterians of that community are planning and for which they have been conducting a campaign among prominent Presbyterians throughout the United States is designed to provide for 1,000 people at the regular church services and 1,100 children at the Sunday school services. The work on this new building, the church auditorium structure, will begin as quickly as possible and is expected to be completed before the end of 1922.

Provides Triple Capacity.
It will provide a triple present capacity for the Sunday school under greatly improved conditions. The present inadequate situation of the children of the Sunday school, and they embrace a variety of creeds and faiths, have to be taught in outside quarters rented by the church, and in one case several blocks away from the church.

Sometime the church will be augmented by the erection of an entirely new Sunday school house, adapted to the most modern training methods, with numerous class rooms, adequate assembly hall, a library room, offices, church society rooms and accommodations for social gatherings. The very plan, however, is not the erection at this time, a manse on the newly purchased ground on Patterson street, adjoining the church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hubert Lee Johnson, and his family will live. The entire program therefore will eventually cost $200,000, which is expected to be provided for the religious expansion of Chevy Chase for some years to come, with building or improvement operations that may be made by the other churches in the community.

Description Sent Out.
To every home in Chevy Chase there has been sent by the committee in charge of the Presbyterian home movement a comprehensive description of the new $200,000 church, with commendations from the organized Presbyterian bodies regarding the project. It states among other things that the Chevy Chase home has its national factors as well as local, and that the thousands of young men and women every year leave their home surroundings and come to Washington to meet unknown influences in this great city, which is not ranked in population (437,571) by only thirteen American cities. It is also pointed out that all the Washington churches always face a shifting population, and that their current support comes largely from "low-salaried" government employees of more or less uncertain tenure of office, many of whom look upon themselves as "strangers here."

The leaders of the movement have pointed out that Methodist Episcopal Church has already raised $400,000 throughout the south $400,000 and built a fine new representative church in Washington. Under the head of "What the Methodist Episcopal Church South is Doing," thus writes the announcement distributed to all churches, "the Presbyterian Presbyterians of the city and the Rotary Club, are in friendly rivalry to see which can dispose of the greatest number of tickets."

The Boys' Club is an outgrowth of the former Working Boys' Home and is a real club in every respect, for boys between the ages of eight and sixteen. The members of the club are summed up in the condensed report of the superintendent for April, which follows: Total 215; new members 42; attendance at gymnasium during month, 912; number different boys in industrial classes, 108; number different depositors in bank, 105; amount deposited during month, $105.42; amount deposited since January, $3,197.8; number of boys officers, 31; and group state meetings, 2.

Not Commercial Center.
"Our national capital is different from any and all of the capital cities of the world. It is not a center of commerce, of industry, of politics, through long years. It is not a commercial center and never can be. Many other capital cities are metropolises of trade, as well as capitals of nations. Many of their great churches equal, if they do not surpass, the political buildings which surround them.

"But what a contrast is found in Washington when its churches are compared with the Capitol or the Congressional Library. This fact is not creditable to the capital nor good for the nation.

"How can this be remedied? Churches to comport with the public buildings of the city cannot be erected by appropriations from the national treasury. Nor can they be built by the people who live in Washington, for the population changes with every change of administration, and if it were more stable it can never be composed of men and women of great wealth, since there is no wealth-producing commerce in the city.

Duty to Have Edifice.
"In view of all these facts, it seems to be the manifest duty of every great religious denomination in the country to erect at least one more representative church at the National Capital. And their duty and their interest coincide in the matter, for without such a church their members who for cause come to reside in the city will drift away into other communities that are better housed.

"WARREN A. Candler, Bishop of the Presbyterian Church at Chevy Chase, was urged by the United States Senator Francis G. Newlands. He made the suggestion that the church be opened within a generation and expressed the hope that it would be occupied in a strong spirit of religious unity.

FAVORABLE TO RED CROSS
Resolution in Senate Would Permit Use of Temporary Buildings.

Authority is given the American Red Cross to continue occupying the temporary buildings at 7th and D streets northwest in a joint resolution reported favorably to the Senate by the committee on public buildings and grounds by Senator McKimley of Illinois.

One of the buildings is being torn down, and the question of vacating the others has been held up pending legislation.

PLANS FOR JULY 4TH.
Arrangements have been made for the Fourth of July celebration to be held at Kensington, Md. Mayor Skinner has appointed a number of committees to work out the details for the celebration and the co-operation of the residents of Chevy Chase.

DRIVE SHOWS NEED FOR NEW CHURCH
Combined Capacity of Chevy Chase Buildings, 820, and Population, 7,000.

Seven thousand people in Chevy Chase and a very large proportion of the population of Washington have a striking illustration of the need of a new church building in the District in the inauguration of the movement for financing greater building accommodations for religious worship at Chevy Chase Circle.

With a population of six or seven thousand in Chevy Chase, which includes the community section of the city, the combined capacity of the churches there is only 1,000. This is not all that has confronted Chevy Chase. In five years it is estimated that the population of that territory will reach upward of 9,000 people and that the number of children of school age will reach at least 4,000. This is the condition of affairs in one of the largest suburbs of the National Capital that has caused the awakening of interest and support of the most prominent men and women of Washington during the past week. The church that the Presbyterians of that community are planning and for which they have been conducting a campaign among prominent Presbyterians throughout the United States is designed to provide for 1,000 people at the regular church services and 1,100 children at the Sunday school services. The work on this new building, the church auditorium structure, will begin as quickly as possible and is expected to be completed before the end of 1922.

Provides Triple Capacity.
It will provide a triple present capacity for the Sunday school under greatly improved conditions. The present inadequate situation of the children of the Sunday school, and they embrace a variety of creeds and faiths, have to be taught in outside quarters rented by the church, and in one case several blocks away from the church.

Sometime the church will be augmented by the erection of an entirely new Sunday school house, adapted to the most modern training methods, with numerous class rooms, adequate assembly hall, a library room, offices, church society rooms and accommodations for social gatherings. The very plan, however, is not the erection at this time, a manse on the newly purchased ground on Patterson street, adjoining the church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hubert Lee Johnson, and his family will live. The entire program therefore will eventually cost $200,000, which is expected to be provided for the religious expansion of Chevy Chase for some years to come, with building or improvement operations that may be made by the other churches in the community.

Description Sent Out.
To every home in Chevy Chase there has been sent by the committee in charge of the Presbyterian home movement a comprehensive description of the new $200,000 church, with commendations from the organized Presbyterian bodies regarding the project. It states among other things that the Chevy Chase home has its national factors as well as local, and that the thousands of young men and women every year leave their home surroundings and come to Washington to meet unknown influences in this great city, which is not ranked in population (437,571) by only thirteen American cities. It is also pointed out that all the Washington churches always face a shifting population, and that their current support comes largely from "low-salaried" government employees of more or less uncertain tenure of office, many of whom look upon themselves as "strangers here."

The leaders of the movement have pointed out that Methodist Episcopal Church has already raised $400,000 throughout the south $400,000 and built a fine new representative church in Washington. Under the head of "What the Methodist Episcopal Church South is Doing," thus writes the announcement distributed to all churches, "the Presbyterian Presbyterians of the city and the Rotary Club, are in friendly rivalry to see which can dispose of the greatest number of tickets."

The Boys' Club is an outgrowth of the former Working Boys' Home and is a real club in every respect, for boys between the ages of eight and sixteen. The members of the club are summed up in the condensed report of the superintendent for April, which follows: Total 215; new members 42; attendance at gymnasium during month, 912; number different boys in industrial classes, 108; number different depositors in bank, 105; amount deposited during month, $105.42; amount deposited since January, $3,197.8; number of boys officers, 31; and group state meetings, 2.

Not Commercial Center.
"Our national capital is different from any and all of the capital cities of the world. It is not a center of commerce, of industry, of politics, through long years. It is not a commercial center and never can be. Many other capital cities are metropolises of trade, as well as capitals of nations. Many of their great churches equal, if they do not surpass, the political buildings which surround them.

"But what a contrast is found in Washington when its churches are compared with the Capitol or the Congressional Library. This fact is not creditable to the capital nor good for the nation.

"How can this be remedied? Churches to comport with the public buildings of the city cannot be erected by appropriations from the national treasury. Nor can they be built by the people who live in Washington, for the population changes with every change of administration, and if it were more stable it can never be composed of men and women of great wealth, since there is no wealth-producing commerce in the city.

Duty to Have Edifice.
"In view of all these facts, it seems to be the manifest duty of every great religious denomination in the country to erect at least one more representative church at the National Capital. And their duty and their interest coincide in the matter, for without such a church their members who for cause come to reside in the city will drift away into other communities that are better housed.

"WARREN A. Candler, Bishop of the Presbyterian Church at Chevy Chase, was urged by the United States Senator Francis G. Newlands. He made the suggestion that the